

Table of Content

Acknowledgements.....	1
Abstract	2
Table of Content	3
1. Introduction	6
1.1. Research question and significance	7
1.2. Introducing Giambellino	8
1.3. Organization of thesis	11
2. Diagnosing issues in center-periphery relations	13
2.1. Understanding key concepts	15
2.1.1. Center and periphery – definitions and implications	15
2.1.2. Making sense of neighborhoods	18
2.2. Studying interactions between government and citizens	20
2.2.1. Assessing the quality of the interaction in terms of citizens’ participation	22
2.2.2. Connecting definitions and people’s experience through frames and narratives..	25
2.2.3. Policy making and emotions	28
2.3. Conclusions	30
3. Research Design	33
3.1. The neighborhood as a case study	33
3.2. Methods for fieldwork	35
3.2.1. Interviews.....	36
3.2.2. Participant observation.....	37
3.3. Challenges in the research process	39
3.4. Ethical concerns	40

3.5. Conclusion.....	41
4. Why the feeding hand gets bitten.....	42
4.1. The role of citizens in designing a Masterplan	43
4.1.1. Brief history of the redevelopment plan and what it entails	43
4.1.2. Translating the Masterplan into practice	46
4.1.3. Mismatched questions and answers – the new library.....	50
4.1.4. Consequences of a divided neighborhood for the redevelopment project	52
4.1.5. Conclusion	53
4.2. The impact of different perspectives	54
4.2.1. City-oriented vs neighborhood-oriented.....	54
4.2.2. The influence of past interactions.....	58
4.2.3. Implications of defining a ‘periphery’	62
4.2.4. Frame conflicts within Giambellino	65
4.2.5. Conclusion	66
4.3. Redevelopment as a process of change.....	69
4.3.1. Change as a controversial theme in policy making.....	69
4.3.2. Emotions around change for residents of Giambellino	71
4.3.3. Conclusion	75
4.4. Bringing the pieces together	77
5. Conclusions	80
5.1. Summary of findings and their interplay.....	80
5.2. Significance of analysis and implications	83
5.3. Recommendations for further research.....	84
5.4. Reflections as a researcher.....	85
Bibliography	87

Cited works	87
Cited interviews	92
Appendix 1: List of interviewees	94
Appendix 2: Interview excerpts in original version	95